

Islamic State beheads teenage boys for listening to pop music and missing Friday prayers

Islamic State terrorist decapitates a young boy

02/ 2016

The boys were beheaded and shot dead respectively as the Islamic State tries to maintain its grip on the city of Mosul, Iraq.

The Islamic State beheaded a 15-year-old boy for listening to pop music in the jihadist stronghold of Mosul, northern Iraq.

The teenager, identified as Ayham Hussein, was captured by an Islamic State patrol in central Mosul while listening to music of western content in his father's grocery store in the Nabi Younis marketplace, according to the Kurdish news agency.

"He was referred to the Sharia Court, and which subsequently issued a decision to execute him," - spokesman for the Nineveh media centre.

The Islamic State terrorists beheaded the teenager publicly. Hussein's body was allegedly handed to his family.

The incident is reported to have caused public outrage with local residents actually daring to stage a protest at the home of the victim's family.

"There was no formal decision by the Sharia Court that prohibited the] listening to western music," - a local source.

During 02/2016 Islamic State terrorists executed two young men, aged 22-25, for failing to attend prayers at the main mosque in Mosul, which is regarded as apostasy by the Sharia court.

"They were both shot dead in front of the Aisha Mosque in al-Nour neighborhood eastern Mosul," - local media activist Abdulah al-Malla.

"The execution took place after a member of the Sharia Court read a statement vowing anyone who misses the prayers at the mosque to face the same punishment," it was added.

Iraqi News' online newspaper reported that the Islamic State had issued a fatwa which ordered the execution of anyone celebrating Valentine's Day.

"The al-Sharia Court in Mosul issued a fatwa to execute anyone who celebrates Valentine's Day in the city because of the prohibition of these occasions," - media official in Kurdistan Democratic Party in Mosul .

Mosul, the second biggest city in Iraq was captured by terrorists of the Islamic State during early 06/2014, as part of full-scale offensive of terrorists in Northern Iraq.

More than 8,000 Iraqis were killed and 15,000 injured as a result of violence, armed conflict, and acts of terrorism during 2015, according to the United Nations Assistance Mission for Iraq (UNAMI) data.
