

Secret Intelligence Service

Identification of Surveillance Room No. 15

Section Acting Skills and the Spy

OR220916r15tyqa

Surveillance

It is a tiresome business and is not simple. Although surveillance can be used even by children, it is usually carried out by adults with good physique, that is, in age range 20-50 years. Those who need to surveil do not have any specific, conspicuous signs. Their main sign - is obscurity. From time to time they change clothes, hairstyles, glasses, use wigs, false beards or mustaches.

All these items can be carried in a bag on the shoulder, and replacements may require just a few seconds - in a dark entrance. Note that the lower part of the wardrobe is not so easily substituted, and usually remains the same, that is; trousers, shoes, skirts.

Surveillance is rarely carried out alone. This is because there is a risk of losing the target and becoming familiar. Between, is the following, seamlessly, utilizing communication devices or mobile phones. Inconspicuous and outward calm does not mean equanimity. If in the exit of the subway you flashed the person you have seen a half hour ago, it is hardly a coincidence, more likely evidence of primitively organized surveillance.

'Fillers' usually avoid direct views, and meet all the eyes of the target, they can dramatically change direction.

However, qualified surveillance is conducted via a fairly large group, so that none of its members lights up twice on your route. Fillers often present themselves when they lose visual contact with the object of their surveillance (you): with their behavior immediately changing, in contrast to ordinary passers-by. In the moments when you have shared with fillers an opaque obstacle, she/he can bring the microphone to the mouth or mobile to transfer you to a colleague. Having lost sight of you, the Filler can become nervous, and even speed up the pace by running.

Unusual behavior that we use to detect surveillance

The route for the detection of surveillance is selected in advance by taking into account the places where possible Filler necessarily loses visual contact with the target (you). The easiest way, is by going around the corner, freezing in place. The Filler will be unpleasantly surprised when, puffing and panting, the corner behind you, and discover your calm scrutiny.

This option is worsened by the fact that the enemy will know you have identified surveillance. Such a trap is better to think about in advance and because it just makes them more sophisticated: you should be able to watch the hustle-bustle of 'detectives' and whoever else at the time when she/he does not see you. I think that this is better suited for an entrance window, showcases, cafe, or thick bush.

It is usually easy to lure the enemy i.e. detectives thereof (I will refer to them as such) while in a public thoroughfare, albeit at a decent distance (30-60 meters), but will follow you for fear of losing. Remember that the route should not alert the enemy with their uniqueness: the enemy does not suspect that you are trying to detect surveillance.

A further requirement to route - sufficient length and complexity

It is recommend to spend time on identifying surveillance 0.75-2 hours, and the transplant must have a place in public transport, change of direction, the walk along the crowded street (here Filler is kept at a distance of 3-5 meters), and on deserted streets (Filler behind you at a distance of 50-100 meters). Note that directly only one tracker can hang on the tail, but another might be nearby, for example, run parallel to the street. As an alternative route for the detection of surveillance - can offer a detour in shoe or clothing accessories stores. The enemy may be in a nearby subway, trolleybus (tram), or go to your car.

Your task - It is easier to in the middle of a big crowded city, where traffic jams hamper promotion of vehicles. Get rid of the spies on cars or motorcycles and will help your customer traffic on one-way street against the traffic, of course! There is no need to dramatically turn around and change direction, 'detectives' suspect that you have felt that you are surveillance, and will be more careful. You will be even more difficult to identify to them. Behave in such a way to lull their vigilance. Your appearance should be serene; at the same time you can portray violent activity on the purchase, for example, shoes: try on, consult with the seller, ask to postpone this pair, etc.

Finding the right store at the mall can occupy you first, of course, not necessarily in the shoe department.

Throw a reasonable look back while comfortably in front of a pedestrian crossing, expect until the car passes, in the same second "pinpoint" anyone who comes up to you on the sidewalk.

A similar option is to stop at the bus stop and turn around when the bus is there. Another option, you pick up the payphone on the street and casually (vaguely) overlook the street behind. It is particularly convenient if the payphone is located just around a corner or in a yard, at the entrance of high-rises. Perhaps someone from the passers-by will turn away from your eyes dramatically or suddenly packs into the store. Perhaps someone will appear to you an hour later in a completely different part of town.

There is the opportunity to discover the unusual behavior of others, using windows as mirrors; go to the newsstand, restaurant.

On the main streets - it can be quite a long time to move along the windows, sliding along them with peripheral vision. Sometimes on the bridge, which climbs the stairway; here, no one will disturb you, glance down at her/his walk.

Site inspections - better to plan the route in advance, then your actions will be more natural than of frenetic improvisation. Enter in buses and trams through the rear entrance and stay on the back of the site, if the detective must dare to sit in the same traffic, he will be in front of you (to rise through the front door) or the next.

The public transport can present the opportunity to consider the other passengers, and what you will use. Who stops to take a quick look in your direction, for fear that you suddenly leave the salon? However, Filler can use other means of transport, usually a taxi. While going down the escalator, you should stand up to face the customer, on the step below. Then all the passengers, who became later on the tape, will be in front of you, at a glance.

Who is waiting for a train and then captures your peripheral vision, fearing that you suddenly rush upstairs to the exit? Please note that the underground enemy sits normally in the next car and watches the object out, attracting little attention. The need for radio contact with colleagues can give detectives, when you change to another line. Pay attention to the people behind you with mobile phones, radios, or simply a hand near the mouth, there may be a clamped transceiver.

When serious concerns arise, arrange in shops, cars and quickly (a few screening points of the route), her/his colleagues, and then interrogate them, someone behind your back they seem suspicious. Which cars depart from the house as soon as you go on with the client business.

If you managed to discover a walking surveillance, discreetly inform the senior officer and ask her/him to repeat your maneuvers aimed at separation. Take away the senior officer into a crowded place, and try to get lost there; change public transport, leaving it to the last moment before closing the doors at the bus stop; while turning the corner, dramatically speed up the steps, turn into the driveway, use a black store swing-through entrance; You can, on the other hand, watch for tracking the corner and provoke her/him.

Surveillance of the vehicle is carried out by at least two persons in a car.

This rarely engaged skinheads, actually is more effective for this purpose, a woman with a child too. However, one is not a lot to track down, and usually need at least two, and preferably three. In other words, is the need for first-class observing.

First-class monitoring exercise 3-8 people, including at least one woman, on multiple machines

Between themselves, they are linked by radio and coded gestures. When using only two machines are both behind the right and left of the target (you), and from time to time are reversed. If there are 3rd and 4th machine, they are either waiting for you somewhere on the route to take, "the baton" from colleagues, or follow parallel streets and at any moment be ready to replace the 1st and 2nd machine. In the desert areas of tracking is easy to detect, so they usually outperform object by rolling into the alley and sometime waiting. If you train on vehicles and license plate memory, you will not spend this trick.

For surveillance can be used vans, motorcycles, and in the courts and crowded places with limited movement and speed bikes. Is connected to the monitor and the children who are addicted to such a "game", especially for promised money. At a high-level monitoring often use special radio-signalizatory who do not give to lose your car in a busy traffic.

This beeper that transmits sharp beeps "beep-beep-beep" and mounted anywhere, usually on the rear bumper, often using small magnets. "Long-range" beep - up to 8 km, and even in London, you will be hard to lose sight of having such an electronic spy. Do not forget about it - examine the car.

To use the most common surveillance do so without any conspicuous excesses, not quite clean, not quite new, not bright colors, not too big and not too small.

Abroad often use rent a car, but usually not more than once. However, if the car is painted with advertising, it is unlikely to participate in surveillance. These vehicles are often equipped with tracking systems and night vision devices (resembles binoculars, you wear on your head). Primitive does not provide sharp sight, during the day, but finds in the pitch dark silhouettes and allows you to confidently move without a single light. In tracking the machines are also used separate switches front and rear lighting.

Keep in mind that somewhere around the corner, the driver can simply leave the car. It is therefore important to remember the brand and license plate of cars than their drivers.

To detect surveillance, suddenly change direction and watch how it reacted to the surrounding. Displace to the sidewalk, around the corner and stop. Do it so that at any moment to be able to resume the movement, keep the space for turning and stop the engine.

The fact is that this type of surveillance may be the case. Thus, the kidnapping of Aldo Moro provided 12 people on 5 cars and one motorcycle.

In the darkness, if the opponent is not using NVG, you can hide, turning off the external lighting and removing the foot from the brake pedal; most likely, the enemy passes by, and you can go in the opposite direction: Convenient reception completely pointless maneuvers: a turn at 360°, motorway exit and return to it, and so on.

Another way to detect surveillance; pretend that you are going to stay on the warning light, flashing green and yellow lights up when, slipping a crossroads: in this case, the witness will give her/himself away, having flown up to you at a red light. If you are not in doubt that the enemy is hanging on the tail, get ready for a road incident. Increase your distance from other cars.

At the traffic lights do not get up close behind other cars.

Try to escape from surveillance by means of unexpected twists, rebuilding lanes, driving through a red light, a good knowledge through courtyard and maze of the old town.

Another option - your sudden entry under the 'brick' on the one-way street. In flagrant violation of the rules there is hope that you will notice the traffic police; If you see them, you can throw in a pointed trick that will lead them into a rage. When they stop you, tell the reason for this strange behavior.

If you are protecting someone contact the headquarters of her/his security team.

So exert psychological pressure. Identification of such surveillance is not a problem, but it is difficult to get away from it.

Such insolence of the enemy is often indicative of an imminent attack.

Remember that a bad peace is better than a good quarrel.

Secret Intelligence Service

Notes from Identification of Surveillance

Adversitate. Custodi. Per Verum