Basic Rules of Street Fighting

Notes

Every woman (and man) should be able to fight. This truism pushes us into gyms, and so on, but brute force is not enough.

Here are a few basic principles of street combat :

(1) Operate only offensively.

(2) Focus on the attack all the forces and the attention and attack quickly.

(3) Move only in the field of battle, attack and hit the enemy in the open position, without closing in the dead position, and perform clinches.

(4) Move forward suddenly and try to deceive the enemy with respect to the attack space.

(5) In the closed position do not attack.

(6) Attack so that the opponent loses balance and stability.

(7) Never scare and tease the enemy in vain, not to break away from the main task - to win.

(8) Do not demonstrate in vain, and get ready for the actual attack.

(9) Demonstration must be one with the actual attack and be one operation.

(10) Remember that only by demonstrating alone, you cannot win.

(11) Legs are the best defenders.

(12) Call the enemy to an action, unless you manage to turn it to their advantage.

(13) All actions must be sudden, a surprise - the key to the success of the attack.

(14) In the attack quickly learn to focus all energy on the point of attack.

(15) Do not leave unfinished, calculate the forces, bringing the action to the end.

(16) Eye, speed and rush - three basics of tactics:

a) Good eye. It is important not only to determine the enemy forces by eye, but to be able at a glance to see and assess the situation. Learn to act on the basis of eye estimation.

b) Speed starts with and ends all forces. The strength is measured not only the mass of the definition, but the definition of the mass of the ability to move quickly. The speed increases strength.

c) Impact - once started the movement must not be stopped by any obstacle. Do not stop, do not back up, but only continuous strive forward - that's what it means to the onslaught. Only one fighter achieves victory. What is the will to win, such is the rush if you will, with only one hit, then you cannot resist the pressure is stronger than one hit.

(17) Remember that she/his can be a skillful fighter: Learn how to start a fight before your opponent.

(18) When you went out to fight not perform unnecessary movements: movements should be no more than require conceived operation. Unnecessary movement and jumping show just what a fighter does not know what to do.

(19) When you are ready to attack, remember that it can give you a lot of surprises, be ready for them, calculate:

a) What is the protection,

b) What will be the response,

c) Where to send the main forces, ie. a second blow from the reserve,

d) Continue the attack.

(20) Head in battle bowed down, right eye sees danger, do not close your eyes - a sign of the uncertainty in the forces.

(21) If you want to solve the enemy plan - look him in the eye, if you want to hide from him the plan - do not look him in the eye.

(22) All attention is focused on their abilities and in their actions; take heed to do the opposite, funky thinks more about the actions of the enemy than about their own.

(23) Learn to focus on the way of warfare, not to see or hear anyone from the outside who does not know how to do it, the confused will not know what she/he should do - whether to sit in front of the enemy, or to the audience, the fight ending in defeat.
